

Students Assistance for the first CPIL Conference “One day National Law Students’ Conference on International Courts and Tribunals: Indian/ Asian Perspective”.

The following list of the students from the 2007 batch at the Gujarat National Law University who played an active role of commitment and volunteerism, in the successful organization of the inaugural event of Center for Public International Law and one day National Law Students’ Conference on International Courts and Tribunals: Indian/ Asian Perspective.

The CPIL whole-heartedly congratulates each and every one who has given the best support both intellectual and organizational dedicated to the cause of public international law in India. It goes without saying how they all have helped CPIL as well as the conference. To name few issues that were handled by the students; printing of invitation, certificates, badges and banners, designs needed for them, editing the conference messages and compeer-presentations, networking, public relations and liaison with students from outside, logistics and hospitality arrangement, coordination of financial matters with the accounts department, all kinds of secretarial and administrative work with CPIL and the GNLU administration, and many such selfless activities inspired and motivated the whole inauguration, conference and the organization to a grand success.
