“Towards A Food Secure INDIA” – Book by GNLU Centre for Food Security & Agro Economy

Dear Sir/Madam,

Greetings from GNLU!

The world today discusses food as strategic commodity and its context gets further amplified as food security emerges as the road block to clear the Trade Protocol in the World Trade Organization.

GNLU's Centre for Food Security & Agro Economy is glad to present the book on “Towards A Food Secure India” which is a collection of research papers highlighting interdisciplinary perspectives to food security. The researchers have dealt into theoretical as well contemporaneous issues which are of strategic importance to the world and India in particular.

The growing dialogue demands a relook at multifarious dimensions of this narrative. This is a humble attempt at exploring those vital ingredients that shape the food security debate.

For further information, you may kindly contact Dr. Ranita Nagar, Director Centre for Food Security & Agro Economy, GNLU & General Editor of the book at (+918128663923 or rnagar@gnlu.ac.in)
