GNLU PRESS NOTE No. 33/2014

Cooperation Agreement between GNLU and Osaka University, Japan

With an aim to provide foreign teaching, research and training (internship) opportunities to students and faculty and thus to contribute indirectly to the bilateral relations between India and Japan, GNLU has entered into cooperation agreement with the Osaka University, Japan.

The cooperation agreement envisages participation of both university students into each other's short-term English programs, organisation of short-term training and credit courses, undertaking of research activities in India and Japan, including internship opportunities for researchers. The collaboration will focus in the initial stage in the area of legal history, sociology of law, legal theory, constitutional law, and investment and financial laws. GNLU students will be offered short-term courses at free of cost in the Osaka University, Japan.
