

Free Symposium on Conservation of Biodiversity in India

Gandhinagar, Sep 03, 2019: GNLU, Gandhinagar is organising a one-day symposium on "Conservation of Biodiversity in India: Issues and Challenges" on Saturday, September 07.

Participation in this symposium is absolutely free. Limited seats are available. PG students of any university and any stream interested in attending the symposium may contact GNLU.

The main resource person is Dr Aeshita Mukherjee, who represents the GIZ India office which works in the close cooperation with the Government of India, Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change on the UNEP & UNDP projects.

Media Contact:

Ashok Shah

Email: 9909960240, 8849110049