

Release of the Inaugural Issue of the GNLU Journal of Law & Economics

Gandhinagar, October 09, 2018: The Inaugural Issue of the GNLU Journal of Law & Economics was released, today.

The Journal attempts to encourage academic research and scholarship in the field of law and economics. Established with an aim to make the public more informed about the subject, in its efforts to bridge the existing gap between the intellectuals and the common man, GNLU had to depart from the print culture of academic law reviews, to bring out an online, open access journal with an impact equal to that of a print journal, in terms of the people involved in it and the content. At the same time, it endeavours to provide a resource repository in the form of research papers, articles, essays and case comments, for academicians, lawyers, and judges in dealing with the pressing issues arising in this field of study.

As one of the few universities in India to be offering this subject, GNLU takes immense pride that this is the first of its kind open access journal dedicated to this field in India. Click here to access the website.
