

Orientation Programme for the first-year students

Gandhinagar, October 21, 2020: Gujarat National Law University (GNLU) organized an Orientation Programme for the first-year students of the five-year integrated undergraduate programme in law as well as the postgraduate (LLM) Programme for the academic year 2020-2021.

GNLU Director Dr Shanthakumar congratulated the students on securing admission to one of the finest law schools in the country. Welcoming the students to GNLU, he said that GNLU offers an excellent ecosystem for the holistic development of students and advised them to take maximum benefit of the university resources for their personal and professional growth. He also asked the students to express their sense of gratitude to their teachers, parents, siblings and friends who have stood by them in their journey so far.

After a two-day long orientation programme, regular academic sessions will commence from October 23. The first semester will end on February 01, 2021.

It may be mentioned that GNLU, like all other National Law Universities, admits students to its UG and PG programmes based on Common Law Admission Test (CLAT) conducted by the Consortium of National Law Universities. This year, CLAT was delayed on account of coronavirus pandemic, which resulted in the delayed start of the new academic term.

GNLU offers a five-year integrated undergraduate programme in law in five different streams: arts, commerce, science, business administration and social work and LLM in eight specializations: Corporate & Business Law, International Comparative Law, Intellectual Property Laws, Constitutional & Administrative Law, Criminal Law & Security Law, Sports Law, Public Policy, Law & Governance, and Maritime Law.
